PIOLON SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Business Administration – Human Resources

This program may lead to career paths in an HR department in a business, non-profit organization or governmental agency.

Things you’ll learn to do
• Attract and retain outstanding employees.
• Compensate employees correctly.
• Manage workplace health and safety issues.
• Provide valuable training programs and coaching for employees.
• Handle an organization’s downsizing or workforce realignment.

Critical training
This program offers the opportunity to build foundational skills needed in any business administration career, and delivers hands-on training in vital HR skills through case studies, guest speakers, simulated negotiation situations and group work. You’ll learn about the latest trends in organizational behaviour, human resources planning and employment law.

Industry connections
Throughout the program, you’ll be encouraged to build your personal network within the HR field by attending various industry networking events. The HRPA local chapters, for instance, have hosted events to support Sheridan students in their professional and academic development.

Become a capable HR professional who fosters productivity and satisfaction.
